

DEVELOPING Pittsburgh

2022 EDITORIAL CALENDAR

Spring 2022

Industrial Market Update

Industrial properties were hot coming into 2020. The pandemic, and how people responded to it, made industrial commercial real estate's hottest category. E-commerce is the headline, but demand for industrial space is coming from emerging technology users, healthcare, and agriculture. What is the outlook for industrial through 2025?

NAIOP Pittsburgh's annual awards are highlighted.

Space reservation deadline is February 7. Artwork is due February 14.

Fall 2022

Downtown

No segment of the regional economy was hit harder by the pandemic than the Central Business District. Tourism and the arts are bouncing back to 2019 levels, but daytime office occupancy is low. How long until "normal" returns? What businesses are looking at the CBD for other uses than traditional commuter office?

The 2022 NAIOP Buyer's Guide is published in the fall.

Space reservation deadline is August 8. Artwork is due August 15.

Each edition of DevelopingPittsburgh profiles a local development, takes an in-depth look at the data for the property categories and submarkets and updates the status of the capital markets.
